STATISTICS

STATISTICAL SOURCES

In addition to the official publications scheduled below, the Christian Herald provides a compilation of membership statistics collected by Rev. G. L. Kieffer in its June issue each year. The United Stewardship Council collects and prints in January a compilation of statistics of church contributions covering reports from most of the larger Protestant bodies. The census publication, Religious Bodies, 1926, issued by the Bureau of the Census, remains the authoritative source of general religious statistics until the next decennial census is completed. The official records of the major religious bodies are:

CHART OF CHURCH YEARS

(As reported to the United Stewardship Council, illustrating the difficulty of getting up-to-date figures at any year-end and total figures for any definite period.)

THE STATISTICAL PICTURE OF ORGANIZED RELIGION IN THE U. S.

The number of members of religious bodies reported in the Christian Herald annual summaries in June, 1936, was 51,035,549, 13 years of age and older.

The population of the United States was reported on July 1, 1935, : 127,521,000. Of this number there were 87,160,604, 13 years of age and older.

The percentage of the population 13 years of age and older reported to be in active membership in religious bodies of all kinds was 58.5 per cent.

The clergy reported to be serving in these bodies numbered 244,090.

The churches and synagogues numbered 245,005.

The statistics of membership as collected for the Christian Herald each year are believed to be the most reliable available in the intervals between the religious census dates as set by the federal government. They are obtained from the competent statistician or official of each body. For the main groups they are authoritative and official. There is a percentage of estimating in some bodies but any measure of inflation is offset by the complete reports from others, especially from several large bodies which are averse to providing any statistics.

A federal census should have been taken in the year 1936. The appropriations committee of the House of Representatives eliminated this necessary item from the appropriations bill. Many religious bodies thereupon took action urging this appropriation and strong representations were also made to the President. Funds were finally provided so that the Bureau of the Census might proceed in 1937 for this important contribution to the understanding of the place of religion in its organized form in the national scene.

SECTION II

OVERSEAS,
INTERNATIONAL OR INTERSECTIONAL
JURISDICTIONS
MAJOR RELIGIOUS BODIES

BAPTIST WORLD ALLIANCE

OFFICERS: Pres., Rev. George W. Truett, Dallas, Tex.; Hon. Assoc. Sec., Pres. C. D. Gray, Bates College, Lewiston, Me.; Gen. Sec., Rev. J. H. Rushbrooke, 4 Southampton Row, London, Eng.

The Baptist World Alliance includes Baptists from every country in the world where there are Baptists. The organization holds its meetings once in five years. It is purely advisory in its relations to the Baptist churches. It has no authority over its members. Its chief purpose is to discuss the great themes which are of common interest to the great Baptist family of the world. There is an executive committee with branches in the United States, the British Isles and elsewhere.

INTERNATIONAL CONGREGATIONAL COUNCIL

OFFICER: Mod., Rev. J. D. Jones, 287 4th Ave., New York, N. Y.

The first International Congregational Council was held in London in 1891. It was intended to hold meetings in ten-year periods but this has not been quite the history. Councils have been held in 1899 (Boston), 1908 (Edinburgh), 1920 (Boston) and 1930 (Bournemouth, Eng). The Council organization between sessions consists of an Interim Committee of fifteen members appointed by the Congregational organizations in the United States, British Isles, Australia, Canada and South Africa. The number of official delegates is fixed at 400, of which 150 each are credited to the United States and the British Isles and 100 to the rest of the world.

LUTHERAN WORLD CONVENTION

OFFICERS: Pres., Bishop Abt. Dr. August Marahrens, Loccumer Hof, Hanover, Germany; Vice-Pres., The Rev. Dr. F. H. Knubel, 39 East 35th Street, New York, N. Y., U. S. A.; Vice-Pres., The Rev. Dr. Per Pehrsson, Gothenburg, Sweden; Sec., Bishop Dr. Hans Meiser, Arcisstr. 13, Munich, Germany; Treas., The Rev. Dr. Th. Jorgensen, Vendersgade 28, Copenhagen, Denmark; Asst. Treas., The Rev. Dr. Ralph H. Long, 39 East 35th Street, New York, N. Y., U. S. A.; Gen. Sec., The Rev. Dr. Hans Lilje, Berlin, Germany.

Organized in 1923 and representing the Lutheran Churches of the world, the Lutheran World Convention has held three meetings, viz.: Eisenach, 1923; Copenhagen, 1929; Paris, 1935. Since it was decided in the Paris convention to meet every five years the next meeting will be held in 1940. The affairs of the organization are administered by an Executive Committee which meets annually. Included in its program is the relief of weak and endangered Churches throughout the world.

GREEK ORTHODOX CHURCH (HELLENIC)

Greek-speaking Orthodox Christians have had scattered parishes in the U. S. for the last seventy years. These were at first under the jurisdiction of the Metropolitan of Athens and later under the Patriarchate of Constantinople. Political changes in Europe have been reflected in this country and have brought difficulties in all branches of the Orthodox Church. In 1931 a general convention was held in New York City, under the presidency of Archbishop Athenagoras, which brought a large measure of unity and order.

Membership (CH tables): inclusive, 289,000; adult, 279,000. Churches: 255.

NORTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION

The very loose early connections of Baptists, inherent in their independency, prevented the formation of any general organization until in 1814 a General Missionary Convention was formed to permit Baptists to express themselves in terms of missionary activities. In 1845 the state conventions in the South withdrew to organize the Southern Baptist Convention. In 1907 the Northern Baptist Convention was organized, a delegated body, under whose direction the many agencies of Baptists in the North and West now operate.

B. MINOR BODIES

The following alphabetical list of religious bodies reporting less than 50,000 members each is of "minor bodies" only as to their reported membership. Some of them conserve highly valuable traditions or principles, others represent racial or immigration groups of importance and others visualize special emphasis on individual doctrines or beliefs.

This group represents a minimum of 1,465,179 persons, or about two and one-half per cent of adult church and synagogue membership.

The list does not include independent congregations, of which there are many in metropolitan centers, but is based almost entirely on the list of the religious bodies which are included in the government census of 1926.

The check-list on p. 172 will enable readers to locate bodies whose official name (on which this list is arranged) is not known.

SECTION VII
ARTICLES

THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America is a federation of twenty-three national communions with a total membership of more than twenty-four millions. It was organized in 1908, in order "more fully to manifest the essential oneness of the Christian Churches of America in Jesus Christ as their Divine Lord and Saviour." The Council is governed in accordance with a constitution officially adopted by the participating bodies. It provides for a biennial meeting of the Council as a whole, made up of approximately 300 delegated representatives named by the communions that are officially related to it. These meetings are, in effect, sessions of a central board of common strategy and planning. In the intervening periods, the Council is under the direction of an Executive Committee of approximately eighty members, likewise named by the constituent denominations. In determining the representation upon the Council, each denomination is entitled by the constitution to three members, with an additional member for every 100,000 of its communicants or major fraction thereof. On the Executive Committee, each denomination is entitled to two representatives, with an additional member for every 500,000 or major fraction of its communicants after the first 500,000.

Other interdenominational bodies which carry on activities in specialized fields of Christian service are related to the Federal Council through official representatives who participate in the meetings of the Executive Committee for purposes of consultation and advice. These agencies are: the Home Missions Council, the Council of Women for Home Missions, the International Council of Religious Education, the Council of Church Boards of Education, the American Bible Society, the Foreign Missions Conference of North America, the National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association, the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Associations, the United Stewardship Council of the United States and Canada, the National Council of Federated Church Women.

The work of the Council is carried on through eight major departments, as follows:

Department of Evangelism: Rev. George A. Buttrick, Chairman.

Department of the Church and Social Service: Rt. Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, Chairman.

Department of Race Relations: Rev. W. H. Jernagin, Chairman.

Department of International Justice and Goodwill: Miss Mary E. Woolley, Chairman.

Department of Relations with Churches Abroad: Rev. William Adams Brown, Chairman.

Department of Religious Radio: Rev. Theodore F. Savage, Chairman.

Department of Research and Education: Rev. Justin W. Nixon, Chairman.

Field Department: Rev. Hermann N. Morse, Chairman.

There are also permanent standing committees on Worship, on Financial and Fiduciary Matters, and on Religion and Health.

The work of the Council is supported in part by contributions from the coöperating churches and in part by the gifts of Federal Council "Associates." Associates are Christian men and women who express their sympathy with the objectives of the Council and help to support its work. The operating budget of the Council for 1937 is $230,000.

The last biennial meeting of the Council was held in Asbury Park, N. J., December 9-11, 1936, at which time Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones, of Detroit, was elected President and Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, of New York, Vice-President of the Council.

Local and state councils of churches are widely scattered across the country and, while each of these local or state units is autonomous, they maintain close co-operative relations with the Federal Council and by bringing the churches of their own communities into a more effective unity play a highly important part in furthering interdenominational objectives.

The outstanding service of the Federal Council during 1936 was the National Preaching Mission. The nation-wide response to this united effort for bringing about a spiritual awakening in America exceeded even the highest expectations. The transcontinental itinerary, lasting for three months, embraced twenty-eight major centers of population. There were single meetings with audiences of 18,000 or 20,000. Most of the twenty-eight cities were centers of an extension program which still goes on and which is reaching hundreds of other key cities with similar missions. In addition to this, a movement has been launched for holding preaching missions in local parishes of all denominations. Tens of thousands of congregations are touched in this way.

The National Preaching Mission was one of the most vivid demonstrations of Christian unity that our generation has seen. The Mission drew its leadership from widely separated communions, including several that are not members of the Federal Council. The leaders came from different historic backgrounds and represented different views on many points but they have been one in their faith in God, one in their loyalty to Christ as Lord and Saviour, one in their devotion to His Kingdom.

The Federal Council promotes the interdenominational use of the Fellowship of Prayer during Lent and the observance of the Universal Week of Prayer at the beginning of the year. The recent leadership of the Federal Council in public worship is illustrated by the little manual entitled "Seven Principles of Public Worship."

The Council sponsors the twelve weekly programs of religious radio over national networks. No fewer than 300,000 letters came in 1936 from listeners, expressing appreciation for spiritual help received, asking for help on personal problems, or requesting copies of the messages.

Side by side with its strengthened evangelistic emphasis the Council has maintained in full strength its work of Christian social education and Christian social service. The visit of Toyohiko Kagawa and his nationwide itinerary during the first six months of the year were a powerful reinforcement in this field of responsibility. One concrete result of his visit was a kindling of interest in consumers' co-operatives (in the growth of which in Japan he has been the leading figure) as a means of developing a greater spirit of brotherhood in economic life and also of helping to meet the practical economic problems of those groups in our population who suffer from too meagre income.

The weekly Information Service furnishes reliable and unbiased data on the social and international problems of the world in which the churches are set.

A noteworthy achievement in the field of research and education in 1936 was the study of "Church and State in Contemporary America" which has just appeared under the chairmanship of Professor William Adams Brown.

The Council has assumed the responsibility for the nomination of well-qualified Protestant chaplains in federal prisons and also for their training and a considerable measure of continuous supervision. The first appointments under the new plan have already been made.

The fact that the Council includes in its membership four great Negro denominations gives it an unparalleled opportunity for promoting interracial co-operation and fellowship on a Christian basis. Negro and white members serve together on all the major committees of the Council and in a special department of race relations unite to secure greater opportunity and justice for the Negro people and to further interracial appreciation.

Through their concerted efforts in the Federal Council the churches have come to be recognized as the greatest force in American life for international understanding and world peace.

In the steadily growing movement for ecumenical co-operation and unity among the Christian forces of all lands, the Federal Council, as the American Section of the Universal Christian Council for Life and Work, stands at the center. It has assumed the full responsibility for the American share of the preparation for the World Conference on Church, Community and State which is to be held in Oxford, England, next July.

THE NATIONAL PREACHING MISSION

At the Biennial Meeting of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America held in Dayton, Ohio, in December, 1934, it was unanimously voted to hold a National Preaching Mission. The idea originated in the mind of Rev.

Hugh T. Kerr, D.D., of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The Department of Evangelism was asked to assume the responsibility and develop the plans and program.

Immediately following the Dayton Meeting, a National Preaching

Mission Committee of Fifteen was appointed by the Department of Evangelism and approved by the Executive Committee of the Federal Council. This Committee served for two years, meeting on an average of once every ten days. The members who so faithfully served are as follows—

William Hiram Foulkes, Chairman
 W. S. Abernethy
 Jesse M. Bader
 Albert W. Beaven
 Samuel McCrea Cavert
 John T. Dallas
 Harry N. Holmes
 Lynn Harold Hough

The dominant purpose of the National Preaching Mission was to strengthen the foundations of Christian faith in America. The objective was never lost sight of during the period of preparation as well as during the progress of the Mission itself. Four days were spent in each city except the first four places listed. Each city had a Sunday, for while one Preaching Mission was opening on a Sunday afternoon, another was closing.

Eighty Missioners participated in the twenty-eight Missions during the three months. Five of these were from other lands. E. Stanley Jones of India was the only Missioner who participated in all the twenty-eight cities. Jesse M. Bader, Secretary of the Department of Evangelism and the Director of the National Preaching Mission, also participated in all the cities. Some of the Missioners gave as much as two months, and others six weeks, and still others considerable blocks of time. This unusual and devoted group of Missioners served without honoraria. The mark of the Cross was upon their service.

One of the greatest factors in the National Preaching Mission was its unity. All denominations of Protestantism participated. In America's history, there has never been a religious enterprise that has brought into its fellowship so many denominations in active co-operation as the Preaching Mission. The fellowship of the National Committee, the Missioners, and the churches in each city and community was characterized by the most remarkable unity.

During the four days in each center, the Missioners sought to reach every group in the city and area 'round about. The Gospel is inclusive — and the program followed in each place sought to reach every group, all classes and all races. These groups were ministers, laymen (men and women), schools, colleges and universities, city and government officials, business men, and labor groups. No one was left out.

During the three months, 25,000 ministers attended the Missions. In all the meetings in the twenty-eight centers over 2,000,000 were reached. This figure does not include that multitude reached by the many radio broadcasts and through the daily newspapers. The figures show that the twenty-eight cities held over 1200 Two and One Day Missions. Local ministers and laymen were used as speakers in these cities.

The climax of the entire Mission was in the holding of the Eight Day Missions in the local churches of the nation. Most of these Missions were held by the pastors during the weeks of November 15-22, or November 29-December 6. Some communities found it more practical to hold their Missions in January. The number of these Missions held in local congregations goes up into the thousands. It was a period of an unusual spiritual awakening.

The twenty-eight cities raised sufficient funds to take care of all expenses. No city has any debt unpaid. The total expense budget in each city was underwritten by responsible individuals and in only one city was it necessary to call upon the underwriters. All but this one city were able to raise sufficient funds to care for all expenses through free will offerings during the Mission. Many of the cities had a surplus left over with which to continue their Preaching Mission plans. Fifty years from now when the National Preaching Mission books are opened and examined, in any one of the twenty-eight cities or in the Federal Council, no one will ever be able to say that anyone got anything financially out of the Mission.

The Federal Council voted in its Biennial Meeting held at Asbury Park in December, 1936, to continue the National Preaching Mission in twenty-two additional cities during 1937. Also, that during the year a Mission be held for Industry (Employer and Employee). The year 1937 is also to be used as a time of preparation for a Mission to schools, colleges, and universities to be held in 1938.

THE PROTESTANT FIELD

General. The years 1935 and 1936 seem to present some advance in material matters and in the field of thought and program for Protestantism as a whole. The trend which was referred to in the last issue of the Year Book, toward economic rehabilitation, continued but at a somewhat slower tempo than was shown by the marketplace. The great majority of churches which found themselves overburdened with extension plans or building debts when the depression broke, had succeeded in refunding or compounding their obligations. On the whole, the churches weathered the depression better than other cultural agencies. In the field of thought and adjustment there have been signs of much ferment and question. The criticism of the current social order involves the social attitudes of the larger bodies of Protestantism, many of which have inherited traditions forged in like social ferments in previous centuries. All of the regular meetings of the larger bodies during 1935 and '36 were characterized by discussions or attempts at discussions, of acute social questions. The question of peace and war, of economic justice, of race relations, and of security for old age received official attention and were appropriately channeled in some bodies into parochial and group programs. The year 1935 witnessed a sharper consideration of these matters than 1936. Some signs of reaction were visible in some connections during the latter year. Governmental policies, as for example, the emphasis on increases in the Army and Navy beyond all previous record, made the question of peace and of war tolerance less academic.

The Preaching Mission. Into the welter of economic perplexity and the puzzle of the church adjustment within the social order, a very simple idea was projected in 1934 by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. It was a suggestion that the outstanding Protestant conception of the importance of preaching be recognized in practice, and an attempt be made on the part of Protestantism to preach the Word of God to the nation. This simple idea was avidly received and has already produced some extraordinary phenomena within Protestantism. A full account of this Mission will be found on page . It has apparently revived the faltering psychology of the Protestant clergy, immensely enhanced the spiritual leadership of the Federal Council, and crystallized some Protestant conceptions of unity, preaching and the Church.

The Stewardship Movement. Under the Laymen's Forward Movement of 1907 which registered an advance for Protestant churches in many directions, emphasis on stewardship, the studied relation of a Christian to things, especially to money, began a movement which brought a large literature on giving, an intense interest on the part of earnest Christians in the getting, saving, spending, and giving of money. The depression greatly crippled the promotion of this movement. During 1935 and 1936 interest revived, especially as earnest people in the churches were seeking some motivation that would measure itself with the incredible waste, extravagance, gambling and immorality characteristic of the return of prosperity. A conference was held in Dayton, O., November 23-24, 1936, by the revived United Stewardship Council, composed of representatives of 23 religious bodies. It was the largest such conference yet held in the United States and was devoted to addresses and discussions of stewardship as an approach to a Christian social order, to sound church finance, valid philanthropy, the development of young people and personal religious commitment. This conference was followed by an inter-faith conference in New York City, sponsored by the Religion and Welfare Recovery Movement, addressed by representatives of Catholics, Protestant and Jewish organizations. Bishop Manning, bishop of New York, made one of the principal addresses.

Church Union. Negotiations have been satisfactorily continuing looking toward the union of the great Methodist bodies, the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant Church. These bodies have quadrennial meetings so that progress is comparatively slow, but in all of them action has already been taken which will assure final votings by conferences within the next two years. So far votes have been not unanimous but overwhelming and it is believed that union will be fully achieved.

The Methodist Episcopal Church. The Methodist Episcopal Church held its quadrennial conference at Columbus, O. Seven of its bishops were retired because of age. Four new bishops were elected. The Rev. G. Bromley Oxnam of Depauw University, Rev. William Henry Hammaker of Youngstown, O., Chancellor Charles Wesley Flint, and the Rev. Alexander Preston Shaw of Los Angeles, a Negro, were elected. On November 10, 1936, the bishops met as a board in Scranton, Pa., and launched a plan to enlist one million "units" of $1 a month to be devoted to Methodist missions and benevolences. The name adopted was "Million Unit Fellowship Movement." The movement urged the renewal of personal devotion, the mobilization of resources for study and action, the stabilization of Methodist opinion for the Christian way as over against Fascism and Communism and the renewal of devotion for world peace.

The Protestant Episcopal Church. The last general convention, 1934, set up a Forward Movement under the chairmanship of the Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, bishop of Southern Ohio. The movement reached every diocese and missionary district during the year 1936, greatly invigorating the parish work of the Church and stimulating all of its activities. A significant meeting during 1936 was a conference of all Anglican bishops in the western hemisphere in Chicago. It marked the fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the famous Chicago Lambeth Quadrilateral which inspired the World Conference on Faith and Order. The Quadrilateral included the following proposition as a basis for Christian unity:

1. The Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments as the revealed Word of God.
2. The Nicene creed as a sufficient statement of the Christian faith.
3. The two Sacraments — Baptism and the Supper of the Lord, ministered with unfailing use of Christ's words of institution, and of the elements ordained by Him.

4. The historic episcopate locally adapted in the methods of its administration to the varying needs of the nations and peoples, called of God into the unity of His Church.

The Northern Baptist Convention. This body met in May in St. Louis, Mo. The Southern Baptist Convention met immediately preceding. Some of the sessions overlapped and were held in common. An increase in missionary offerings was reported. Some controversy was expected over a report on social action. This did not develop. The Committee on Christian Social Order reported a plebiscite on peace. Of the first 10,000 ballots, 42.5 per cent approved of bearing arms in case of attack, 27.6 expressed readiness to refuse service in any and all wars, and only 2 per cent were reported to be ready to bear arms without question whenever government declared war. Enthusiasm was aroused by the suggestion of closer fellowship from a representative of the Disciples Church. A joint commission was proposed to work out closer co-operation between the Colored National Convention, the Northern and the Southern Conventions.

The Southern Baptist Convention. This body drew its "messengers" in part from a conservative section of its territory. Difficulties arose over the social action recommendation and the Convention could not make any progress along this line. On the other hand it was reported that there had been approximately 200,000 baptisms in this body during the past year with a net gain of more than 100,000 and an increase of over 11 per cent in its contributions.

The Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. This body, the largest branch of Presbyterianism, finally disposed of a schismatic group which had been preempting much of the time and thought of the General Assembly for a long period of years. This group organized an independent seminary, set up an independent foreign missions board, and was filling the records of lower judicatories with complaints and appeals. Their cases were finally adjudicated by the highest court, the Judicial Commission of the General Assembly. The protesting group were all found guilty of administrative offenses, summoned to repentance, and when this was rejected, deposed. The Assembly took advanced action with reference to social questions, heading up a new department in its Board of Christian Education, to which all social matters might be referred, and to which adequate time in Assembly discussion might be assured. The General Assembly noted three anniversaries which will be observed: in 1936-37 the centennial of the Whitman-Spalding missionary penetration of the Northwest; in 1937-38 the centennial celebration of its Board of Foreign Missions; in 1938-39 the sesqui-centennial of its General Assembly.

The Presbyterian Church, U. S. The Southern Presbyterian Church met in Augusta, Ga., in 1936, observing its 75th anniversary. The question of merging was unexpectedly raised. The matter was referred to a special committee which brought in a unanimous report opening the question for study and report in 1937.

The Lutheran Church. The biennium, 1935-1936, witnessed definite advances toward Lutheran unity on the part of some of the larger Lutheran bodies. The commissions of the United Lutheran and American Lutheran Church, authorized in the convention of 1934, met together twice in 1936 to discuss the question of closer relations and fellowship, and reported to their respective conventions held in October, 1936, that progress had been made. As a result of similar action by the Missouri Synod in its triennial convention at Cleveland in 1935, two meetings were held between the representatives of the United Lutheran Church and the Missouri Synod in 1936. All these negotiations are to be continued.

The United Lutheran Church, meeting at Columbus, O., adopted an aggressive promotional plan consolidating several of its boards and committees for coordinating missionary and educational work. The Lutheran World Convention met in New York in October. Bishops Marahrens and Meiser and Dr. Hanns Lilje of Germany attended this convention and then proceeded to visit Lutherans and Lutheran gatherings in other parts of the country. A great loss to Lutheranism was the death in June, 1936, of the Rev. John A. Morehead, president of the Lutheran World Conference from 1923 to 1935.

The Congregational and Christian Churches. The biennial meeting of the General Council of this body was held at Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., June, 1936. Roger W. Babson was elected moderator. The general theme of the Council meeting was "The Effective Church." A denominational plebiscite modeled after the one held in the previous biennium on peace, was decided upon, questions concerning the economic order to form the subject on which the opinions of individual Congregationalists are to be asked. Two years will be given to the study and discussion of these questions with the plebiscite in time for the next General Council meeting. The report of a strategy committee was presented, suggesting the unification of the work of the Home Missionary Society, the Church Building Society, the Sunday School Extension Society, the American Missionary Association, the Education Society, the Publishing Society, and the work of the Council for Social Action under the administration of a single corporation with some appropriate name.

The Evangelical and Reformed Church. The union of the Evangelical Synod and the Reformed Church in the U. S. has been gradually taking form in its details. The union in 1934 was one of spirit. No creed, no constitution, no detailed articles of union were agreed upon. The merging of organizations and offices has been proceeding as the way has opened. The next meeting of this united body will be held in 1938 when the union doubtless will register a large part of its details.

The Reformed Church in America. The General Synod of this body met in Rochester in June, 1936. It chose a young man, F.

Raymond Clee of Jersey City, for its president. It adopted a forward program and instructed its president and other officers to carry the program through the entire Church. A pre-synod conference on stewardship and evangelism created a deep spiritual impression.

The Church of the Nazarene. The General Assembly of this body met in Kansas City, Mo., in June, 1936. Delegates were present from the U. S., Canada, Great Britain, Africa, Palestine, India, China, Japan, Peru, Central America and Mexico. The Assembly gave special attention to perpetuating the missionary spirit, to increasing the contributions to foreign missionary work, and to augmenting the force of workers on the field. Provision was made to have all the different fields visited by a general superintendent during the next quadrennium for the purpose of maintaining careful foreign supervision.

The United Brethren in Christ. The next quadrennial meeting of the General Conference of this body will meet in Chambersburg, Pa., May 11, 1937. This body is now endeavoring to complete a forward movement which was inaugurated four years ago and which has already registered an increase of more than 24,000 active members and an increase of 24 per cent in its contributions to missionary activities.

Friends. In October, 1935, the quinquennial sessions of the Five Years Meeting of Friends in America were held. This meeting was composed of eleven yearly meetings of the United States and one of Canada. Twelve commissions reported on various aspects of life and work. A world conference of Friends will be held September 1-8, 1937, on the campuses of Swarthmore and Haverford Colleges. Friends joined with Mennonites and Dunkers beginning in November, 1935, in a series of conferences looking toward closer relationships and common action on questions which have always been vital to these pacifist churches. There has also been organized a Friends Fellowship Council, an important part of whose work is the launching of what is known as the Wider Quaker Fellowship. This fellowship is promoted for the purpose of including members of other church bodies and those with no church affiliation who hold to the general principles of the mystical experience and who desire spiritual fellowship on the basis of the Quaker interpretation of religion.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC FIELD

Catholic Events. Among the principal Catholic events of the year in this country was the visit of His Eminence Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State; the laudation of the American Hierarchy by Pope Pius XI in his Encyclical Vigilanti Cura, which applauded efforts that have been in progress for several years to enhance the moral tone of motion pictures; the erection of the 17th Ecclesiastical Province in the United States, with the elevation of the Most Rev. John J. Cantwell as the new Archbishop; the selection of His Eminence Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia, as Papal Legate to the 33rd International Eucharistic Congress to be held at Manila, February 5 to 7, 1937; and the collection of funds for the erection in this country of a seminary for the training of Mexican priests.

Religious Observances. Among notable religious ceremonies of the year were: Observance of Eucharistic Day in Pittsburgh, in which 300 priests joined with 100,000 Catholic laymen; a demonstration 55,000 men of the Archdiocese of Cincinnati offered in reparation for the acts of irreligion committed in Spain, Mexico and Russia and "for domestic sins of social injustice"; a solemn Field Mass in which 10,000 persons joined, commemorating the Silver Jubilee of the Diocese of Toledo; the Cleveland Diocesan Eucharistic Congress; national observance of the 79th birthday of Pope Pius XI on May 31; a Pontifical Military Field Mass at Dallas, Texas, on October 11, as part of the Texas Centennial celebration; observances connected with the Tercentenary of the founding of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, and with the dedication of the memorial to three heroes of the Revolutionary War at Vincennes, Ind.

Missions. World-wide contributions to the work of the Pontifical Society for the Propagation of the Faith reported in May, totalled approximately $3,350,000, while donations to the work of the Pontifical Society of St. Peter the Apostle for Native Clergy amounted to approximately $720,000. These sums totalled about $100,000 more than the sums reported in 1935. The National Office of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith announced last June that it has set $2,000,000 a year as its goal for the annual offering of American Catholics. Encouraging reports continued to come from Catholic Missions in various parts of the world. It was reported that 15,168 native students are preparing for the priesthood in 340 seminaries in China, India, Japan, Indo-China, Africa and other sections. The 41st annual meeting of the Catholic Church Extension Society, held at Chicago and attended by 55 members of the Hierarchy, announced that the receipts of the Society in 1936 returned to the $1,000,000 mark, the figure reached before the depression. Of this sum $500,000 were disbursed to home missions in the United States between October 1, 1935, and September 30, 1936.

Interest in Negro. In regard to the home missions, a letter from the Consistorial Congregation in Rome highly praised the Episcopate in this country for their work among Negroes. Fifty years ago there were only 15 Catholic churches for Negroes in the United States, 15 priests engaged in administering to the colored people and a few small schools for children. Today there are 221 Negro churches and 249 priests working among the colored people. The Negro schools comprise 189 parochial or mission schools, 15 orphanages, seven boarding schools, three industrial schools, 49 high schools, one college, one preparatory seminary and one theological seminary. This growth is revealed in the annual report of the Rev. Dr. J. B. Tenny, S.S., secretary of the Catholic Negro and Indian Mission Board. At their annual meeting in Washington, the Archbishops and Bishops of the United States adopted a resolution lauding the great Christian work of Mother Mary Katherine Drexel, supervisor general of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament for Indians and Colored People.

Schools. A total of 2,605,500 students were estimated to have enrolled in Catholic educational institutions last September. The number of teachers in these institutions was placed at 86,200. The total number of Catholic schools was placed at 10,520. These estimates by the Department of Education of the National Catholic Welfare Conference afford no comparisons with the previous year, as such comparisons are made only every second year and are now being compiled for the 1934-36 period. A total of 68,800 students received diplomas from Catholic high schools and colleges throughout the United States last June. The 33rd annual meeting of the National Catholic Educational Association condemned attempts at federal control of education and opposed compulsory oaths of allegiance for teachers. The Department of Superintendents of this Association, at the 19th semiannual meeting, announced that constant efforts will be made to enlighten the public on the Catholic attitude concerning state aid of schools. The 1934 biennial survey of the N.C.W.C. Department of Education shows that the Catholic school system in that year saved the nation $139,- 626,512 in school taxes. It is expected that the 1937 survey, now being prepared, will show a similar saving for 1936 in public taxation through the operation of the Catholic school system.

St. Vincent de Paul Society. The annual report of the Superior Council of the United States, Society of St. Vincent de Paul, showed a total of $5,797,060 expended by that organization for the relief of the needy over the twelve-month period. The Society gave assistance to 115,966 families, representing 560,538 individual persons throughout the United States. The Society's members made 1,129,033 visits to families and 80,372 visits to institutions.

Motion Pictures. Beginning last February the preparation and circulation of the classified lists of motion pictures issued by the National Legion of Decency was undertaken by the New York Archdiocesan Council, under the chairmanship of former Governor Alfred E. Smith. That same month, in a statement made public in Washington, the Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures expressed opposition to censorship through legislative measures and gave assurance that the Legion of Decency would continue its active interest in the moral significance of motion pictures. In July, following the appearance of Pope Pius XI's Encyclical Vigilanti Cura on motion pictures, the only Encyclical issued during the year, Archbishop McNicholas, chairman of the Bishops' Committee, hailed this document as a renewed evidence of the Holy Father's "world vision and unceasing solicitude for souls."

The Legion of Decency continued to enjoy the confidence of Americans generally and their active co-operation in promoting the cause of decency in motion pictures. The Papal Encyclical itself received the commendation of persons prominent in the motion picture industry.

Industrial Problems. The Catholic Conference on Industrial Problems, conducted under the auspices of the Department of Social Action, National Catholic Welfare Conference, held seven meetings—at Philadelphia, Washington, Schenectady, Chicago, Cincinnati, San Francisco and Rochester. These included six regional conferences and a special meeting on "The Negro in Industry." These conferences are held to discuss industrial conditions, legislation and proposals in the light of the Papal Encyclicals on the Condition of Labor, by Leo XIII, and Reconstructing the Social Order, by Pope Pius XI. The attendance at these meetings last year was larger than ever before.

World Peace. The Catholic Association for International Peace carried on its program of education on Catholic principles relating to international problems and cooperation. In addition to the annual meeting in Washington, four student peace conferences were held at as many Catholic colleges. Three publications were issued during the year: "Peace Action of Benedict XV," "The United States and the Dominican Republic," and "An Introduction to Mexico." The Association also sponsored the American edition of John Epstein's monumental work, "The Catholic Tradition of the Law of Nations." Translations of several works, including Mueller's volume on "The Peace Efforts of the Church During the Last Three Centuries," were made by the Association. The Association aided the formation of the Catholic Students' Peace Federation and continued its work in the establishment of study clubs on international problems.

The N.C.W.C. The National Catholic Welfare Conference, with its legal department, its departments of education, social action, immigration, press, and of lay organizations, continued its work of furthering Catholic Action in the United States by supplying informative material and otherwise assisting and coordinating the activities of Catholic organizations and individuals and seeking to bring about a more deeply religious and moral life as a basis for Christian social action. Warm commendation of the work of the Conference was received in letters from Cardinal Pacelli, and from His Eminence Raffaello Carlo Cardinal Rossi, Secretary of the Sacred Consistorial Congregation, and His Eminence Giulio Cardinal Serafini, Prefect of the Sacred Congregation of the Council. The laudations were written after official reports submitted at the November, 1935, General Meeting of the Bishops had been received and considered in Rome. One of the important losses to the Church during the year was the passing of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. Burke, C.S.P., who died on October 30, and who had been General Secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference from its inception. Only a few weeks before his death he had been raised to the rank of Domestic Prelate in recognition of his valued services. The Administrative Board of the Conference, at its annual meeting in November, appointed the Very Rev. Msgr. Michael J. Ready to be General Secretary of the Conference, in succession to Msgr. Burke.

Lay Organization. The National Council of Catholic Women is now organized in 56 Archdioceses and Dioceses. Councils were organized in the Archdiocese of New Orleans and the Diocese of Lafayette and Amarillo in 1936. Affiliated with the National Council of Catholic Women are 17 national organizations, 6 state organizations and over 2,000 local organizations. The Council has continued to carry on the National Catholic School of Social Service at Washington. The National Council of Catholic Men, at the close of the fiscal year on July 31, had a total of 1,057 affiliations throughout the country, consisting of eight national organizations, 395 parish councils, 330 Knights of Columbus Councils, 177 Holy Name Societies, and 147 other local organizations. The National Catholic Rural Life Conference, which seeks to promote the religious, economic and social welfare of Catholics in rural districts, held its annual four-day meeting at the North Dakota Agricultural College, Fargo, N. D., and continued its work in the organization of religious vacation schools in rural districts. The Knights of Columbus, whose membership totals 442,029, continued its charitable and civic work. The Slovak League of America formed the National Federation of Slovak Fraternal Organizations, with a combined membership of 650,000 and assets of $40,000,000. Many other Catholic lay organizations were active during the year.

The Press. The year witnessed a number of advances in the work of the Catholic Press in the United States. Catholic publications generally enjoyed steady growth; the Catholic Press Association observed its silver jubilee; and the Catholic Press of the United States sent to the World Catholic Press Exposition held at the Vatican an exhibit which, for its completeness and artistic presentation, elicited many expressions of commendation. A number of new Catholic newspapers and periodicals made their appearance and plans were being made for securing a wider distribution of Encyclical Letters. The first of 16 volumes of the revised edition of the Catholic Encyclopaedia made its appearance last spring. Our Sunday Visitor, national Catholic Action weekly, under the sponsorship of the Most Rev. John F. Noll, Bishop of Fort Wayne, inaugurated a national campaign for the erection of a statue of Christ in the National Capital. The statue, it was announced, is to be of heroic size and is to be symbolical of the desire of the American people to remain steadfast to the Christian principles upon which the nation was founded.

Communism. Following the annual meeting of the Bishops of the United States at the Catholic University of America in November, the N.C.W.C. Administrative Board issued a statement calling on all believers in religion to fight the evils of Communism and despotism. "In the world-wide conflict between two diametrically opposed philosophies of life, the spiritual and the supernatural on the one side, and the materialistic and naturalistic on the other," the statement said, "there is no place for indifference or neutrality." "To remain indifferent to what is happening before our very eyes," it added, "is not only blameworthy but criminal and for Catholics such culpability is doubly grave because they have before them a clear and explicit program of action."

THE JEWISH FIELD

Jewish Communal Life. The annual convention of the Northeast Region of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations was held in New York City in January, 1936, and was attended by over 1000 delegates from eight states. The meeting of the executive board was held at Buffalo, N. Y., in February, at which the need of becoming a counterpart of the liberal movement in world Judaism and of correlating and coordinating the work of the 286 constituent congregations with the organized Reform movement in America generally, was stressed by Jacob W. Mack, chairman. Roger W. Straus, of New York, on behalf of the Committee on Good Will between Christians and Jews warned that the stress of social forces was making it even more essential to keep open these agencies for the exchange of opinion and promotion of better understanding. The national biennial convention of the United Synagogue of America and its Woman's League, was held in Washington, D. C., in March, and was addressed by Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. It adopted a resolution expressing the view that discussion of social and economic problems properly belongs in the synagogue and that it is not only the right but the duty of the clergy and laity to espouse all causes which in their opinion further the ends of social and economic justice. In another resolution the convention urged synagogues to discourage distinctions based upon social differences among the members, and encourage the laboring masses to enter the synagogue and participate in the management of its affairs.

The Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America met in New York City in April, 1936. It set up a permanent committee for social justice empowered to fight for the five day week, slum clearance and social security legislation.

The Central Conference of American Rabbis held its 47th convention at Cape May, N. J., in June, 1936. It denounced Fascism and Communism as incompatible with the democratic philosophy of Judaism and reaffirmed its support of a "thoroughly socialized democracy." In another resolution, the delegates petitioned the U. S. government "to grant to Jewish religious conscientious objectors to war the same exemption from military service as has long been granted to members of the Society of Friends and similar religious organizations." A committee on marriage, family and home was created for the purpose of formulating a program of education and service to aid rabbis in their efforts to safeguard marriage and the family. The conference endorsed Senator LaFollette's resolution for investigating violations of religious liberties; voted to establish constructive children's clubs and classes to help eliminate crime by eliminating child delinquency; objected to "the policy of any state which strikes at the very practice of religion, specifically the treatment of Catholics in our sister republic of Mexico"; expressed "pride at the fine spirit of restraint and calm which has characterized the great mass of Palestine Jewry during the crisis"; and lamented the "strained relations" between the United Palestine Appeal and the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, Jewish Education. Important developments in adult education appeared during the year. The National Council of Young Israel announced a plan in December to open rotating colleges in seven American cities with night courses in Jewish philosophy. Hebrew language, literature, codes and ceremonials. In May, 1935, the B'nai B'rith launched a movement for the establishment of institutes for adult Jewish study as part of its cultural program.

Welfare Organizations. In February, 1936, over 2500 women delegates, representing 250 constituent groups of the Federation of Jewish Women's Organizations of New York, met in convention to discuss woman's responsibility in world affairs. Resolutions were adopted recommending continuance of the boycott against Nazi Germany, approval and appreciation of the efforts of James G. McDonald on behalf of Jewish refugees from Germany, endorsement of the social service bureau of the Magistrates Court, avoidance of attendance at the Olympic Games, support of the neutrality policy of the U. S., and other measures looking toward the end of war and amendment of the state labor law to include all working for hire.

In December, 1935, the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds announced that a total of $11,144,985 had been received during the fiscal year, 1934, by 68 federations of Jewish charities and welfare funds in the U. S.

The National Conference of Jewish Social Service held its 37th annual meeting, May 31-June 3, at Atlantic City. Among the many controversial topics discussed were (1) the "rank and file" movement in social work, the movement of social workers as distinct from executives; (2) the problem of the increasing anti-Jewish sentiment in America; (3) the employment problems facing Jewish youth. The name of the conference was changed to the National Conference of Jewish Social Welfare.

Cultural. In February, 1936, the last two of eight volumes of the first modern Yiddish translation of the Bible, prepared by the late Solomon Bloomgarden (Yehoash), Yiddish poet and scholar, were published. It was reported that the scholar had worked on the project for twenty years.

Anti-Jewish Movements. Since 1933 there have been two virtually distinct though related anti-Jewish movements in the U. S. The first was evoked by repercussions to events in Germany. The second found its adherents in native American circles. It was essentially prompted by a desire to apply the scape-goat technique, which had been so effective in Germany to divert public attention from the real, complex cause of unrest in the U. S. From the beginning, the movement to introduce Nazi anti-Jewish ideas into the U. S. did not have the support of representatives of the decent and respectable German-American elements in various parts of the country, the widespread opposition to the Olympic games in Berlin, and the support of the boycott against German goods by labor organizations, revealed the repugnance of many organizations and individuals to Nazi ideas. In April, 1936, letters were read into a senatorial investigation making charges on the part of the president of the Sentinels of the Republic concerning the "Jewish brigades" in Washington. Scarcely was the discussion of this incident over when in May, the existence of a secret society of night riders, known as the Black Legion, was bared during the investigation of the murder of a W.P.A. worker. Investigation revealed that prospective members were "asked if they will take up arms against Jews, Negroes and Catholics." Membership was open only to former members of the Ku Klux Klan. On the heels of this exposé, in June, Mayor LaGuardia of New York, issued a summons for criminal libel against one Robert E. Edmondson who had been found to be sending out anti-

Jewish printed matter, estimated at five million copies. Indictments were found against him by the grand jury.

Movements for Better Understanding. Principally through the initiative of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, efforts to spread tolerance and good will were vigorously prosecuted. From Aug. 25 to 30, 1935, an Institute of Human Relations was held at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. The Institute was organized to give Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders an opportunity to consider their common interests and concerns as Americans. Four hundred and fifty-one delegates attended. This highly successful Institute was followed by others in Chicago and New York City.

The National Conference of Jews and Christians also sponsored the third annual observance of Brotherhood Day, February 22 and 23, 1936. This celebration took for its slogan, "Make America Safe for Differences." It culminated in a network radio broadcast of addresses by President Roosevelt, Michael Francis Doyle, of Philadelphia, an outstanding Catholic, and Dr. Cyrus Adler, president of the American Jewish Committee.

A "goodwill tour" was undertaken in April, 1936. The director of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, the Rev. Everett R. Clinchy; Father Michael J. Ahern of Weston College, Weston, Mass.; and Rabbi Morris S. Lazarow, of Baltimore, Md., travelled from coast to coast, visiting 12 states and 27 cities, addressing 45,000 persons at meetings and speaking on the radio in 14 cities.

Another more recently organized agency, the National Committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery, sponsored loyalty days in synagogues and churches, October 5 and 6, 1935, and again in 1936, which had the support of the President, national church organizations, service clubs, news agencies, broadcasting companies and distinguished leaders of the three faiths. At a dinner in February in New York, a demonstration for cooperation of all faiths in a spiritual revival was given, to which one of the Secretaries of the Cabinet of the President brought his good wishes.

Later, in April, at Easter and Passover time, a nationwide broadcast was arranged through which the Rev. Philip J. Farlong, vice-president of St. Patrick's Cathedral College, Rev. Dr. W. Russell Bowie, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, and Dr. Abraham L. Feinberg, rabbi of Mt. Nebo Temple, made a joint plea for the "religious cooperation" of the principal faiths of the world for a united front against persecution, intolerance and hatred.

Overseas Anxieties. The limitations of space prevent allusion to the many problems in many lands which steadily arise in the present troubled times. These are fully discussed in the American Jewish Year Book, vol. 38 (1936-1937).

Bloody rioting, beginning in Palestine about April 17, 1936, turned the attention of the entire Jewish Community to that country and enlisted the interest of large sections of non-Jews as well. On April 23, the Zionist Organization of America announced that David Ben-Gurion, chairman of the Executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine had given assurances by telephone from Jerusalem that nothing had occurred to swerve the Jewish Community from its rebuilding work, that the heroism, self-restraint and discipline of the Jewish Community under attack was a source of pride to the Executive, and that the High Commissioner had assured the Agency that the government was prepared to cope with any emergency. At the same time the Zionist Organization of America announced the formation of a special committee representing all Zionist parties for the purpose of organizing American Jewish support for Palestine Jews during the emergency. The serious crisis in Palestine evoked wide editorial comment in the American press which took the attitude either that Great Britain should fulfill her responsibilities as mandatory power by putting down Arab uprisings or that, as the New York Times declared, "it should be obvious that Arab-Jewish cooperation is the only solution."

Activities of Zionist Organizations Communal concern with Palestine was not restricted to the legislative council proposed last year as to the Arab riots. The Zionist Organization held its 38th annual convention in Atlantic City, N. J., in July, 1935. It voted a sweeping reorganization of its fundamental structure, demanded the allocation of a larger number of immigration certificates to Americans desiring to settle in Palestine, and warned against the danger of special party interests reducing the World Zionist Congress to a state of impotence.

FOREWORD

The Clergy of the nation constitute a valuable resource in the formulation and expression of public opinion at its best.

In matters relating to the public welfare, perhaps no group is called upon so often or so constantly for counsel and advice. There are, moreover, occasions when their cooperation is needed on issues of national and community concern.

"GOSPEL LIGHT" on 400 Incidents

$2.75 postpaid

Dr. George M. Lamsa, talented Assyrian translator of the Four Gospels from the Aramaic, has just written "Gospel Light." This provides commentary and interpretation of miracles, wonders and little understood passages of the New Testament. All his life, Dr. Lamsa has spoken Aramaic, the actual language of Jesus and early Christians. His native tongue and years of research help him to explain Biblical idioms and shades of meaning which have been lost through other translations. His interpretations are valuable to every preacher, teacher and student. $2.75 postpaid, or at dealers. Circular on request.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY

We are here to serve Christ and His Church; and want to aid you.

THE MACEDONIAN CALL

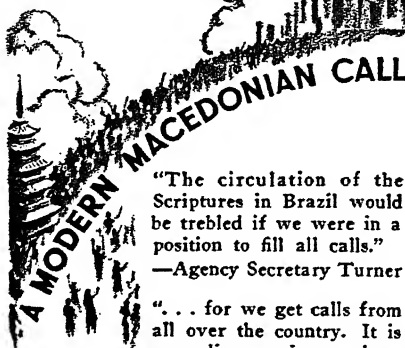

ACTS 16:9

And a vision appeared to Paul in the night... there stood a man of Macedonia and prayed him... saying come over into Macedonia and help us.

THE RESPONSE

ACTS 16:10

And after he had seen the vision immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia assuredly gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them.

"The circulation of the Scriptures in Brazil would be trebled if we were in a position to fill all calls."

—Agency Secretary Turner

"... for we get calls from all over the country. It is very discouraging at times not to be able to grant these requests. I do hope that sometime soon..."

—Agency Secretary Penzotti
